

SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR SHARING, VIEWING, AND CONTROLLING MULTIPLE INFORMATION SYSTEMS

Abstract of the Disclosure

A method and system for sharing information between a variety of telecommunication and computing resources. The system may employ client software modules to connect any combination of these resources to one another through a central server. The operation of the system may reduce the demand for bandwidth on a network as compared to other systems by distributing information from a resource only when that information changes.

King & Spalding File No.: 07955.105003